MINISTERS' HOUSE PARTY IN HALIFAX

"Birchland" Repeats Its Open Hospitality of Last Season.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HALIFAX, VA., August 19.—"Birchland," on Birch Creek, Halifax county, Va., the hospitable home of Rev. T. Horton S. Wilson, was August 18th to 19th, again the scene of a ministers' house-party, like the one reported in The Times-Dispatch last summer. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had repeated their invitation to the members of Roanoke Presbytery to assemble under their roof for a period of social fellowship and restful interruption of their home labors. It was a season of delightful and refreshing fraternal communion. Again, as last year, sickness, either on their own part or in their families, or engagements that could not be set aside, hindered the attendance of some. These were present of the presbytery, besides Mr. Wilson himself: Dr. W. R. Laird and Rev. W. T. Duggott, of Danville; Dr. L. B. Johnston, of South Boston; Rev. J. H. Gaston, of Chambersburg; Rev. Hugh Henry, of Brierly and Meherin Churches; Rev. H. H. Cassidy, of Patrick; and Dr. H. A. Brown, of Charlottesville. Rev. J. O. Shive, of the South Carolina Presbytery, who happened to be spending his vacation in the vicinity, was one of the invited guests, and added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

On Wednesday the ample grounds around the mansion were enlivened by a picnic assemblage from Mr. Wilson's congregations. It was not so large as that of last year, owing to rainy weather, but the fact that the Morcy Seat congregation had the previous week celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the beginning of Mr. Wilson's work here by a reception, given him at their church, but there was a goodly party of ladies and gentlemen, both young and elderly, and many happy children.

Birchland will abide as a pleasant memory in the hearts of all who had the privilege of sharing in its enjoyments. The hours passed rapidly, often in conversation and discussions upon the doctrinal and practical religious questions of the day; sometimes on higher themes. Urgent home duties compelled the departure of some of the party on Thursday. The rest of us on Friday took regretful leave of our kind host, and hostess and their charming family, to return to our respective fields of labor, refreshed for renewed work.

MAPLE SHADE INN IS TRAVELERS' REST

A Large Company Are Making Merry and Enjoying Life.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PULASKI, VA., August 19.—"Maple Shade Inn" may be truly called the "Drummers' Haven of Rest," and each train brings a full delegation. They have been here before.

This hotel is owned by the Norfolk and Western road, and is built at the foot of the beautiful hills that surround Pulaski, and with its spacious lawn, rustic seats and vine-clad porches, it offers unusual attractions for all classes; and among the guests are the old, the middle-aged and young, besides many beautiful babies, with their typical Virginia mammae, who follow them around and seem to feel proud that jewels so precious should be entrusted to their care. The young people enjoy dancing, card-playing, tennis and horseback rides over the mountains, while the middle-aged variety love to look on scenes like these of wild and careless play, and forget that they are growing old.

Mrs. Tucker, of Raleigh, N. C., is here for the summer with her three charming daughters—Mrs. Niles, of Baltimore, and Misses Lillie and Sue Tucker, of Raleigh.

THE ORPHANS' HOME.

A Laundry at the Home Among the Needed Improvements.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, of Ohio Springs, recently left the home an interest in a system of laundry. The present value is only a few hundred dollars, but it is hoped that it will be developed as a source of revenue.

The boys of the home are praying for a steam laundry. The last answer came from Mr. Sevier, the progressive laundress of Bristol, who gave a second-hand extractor. The Maxwell Automobile and Machine Shop, at Roanoke, will put it in repair free of charge. The first money gift for the laundry is $25.00, from Mrs. Whaley, of Halifax county.
